Many routes in the state system of 11,000 miles, carrying 60 per cent of the traffic, are inadequate, he said, because of increased automobile travel.

To hard-surface the entire 11,000 miles of highway in the state system would require an expenditure of more than $2,000,000, he pointed out. A couple billion dollars would be necessary to hard surface all other public roads.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1878, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice before to druggists and the public since 1902, as Dr. Caldwell Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, indigestion, headache, mental depression, indigestion, was changed and other indications that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and acids. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of these and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simple remedy for constipation, the order for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get relief in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with the numerous bottles, chances with strong drugs? All drug

LYONS PITCHES TO RUTH; LOSES GAME

Cincinnati Back in Thick of Fight by Defeating Brooklyn Twice

By LES CONNELL
New York, July 10.—Add famous last words—"So I took a chance and pitched to Ruth."

That's what Ted Lyons did in the ninth inning of the Yankee-White Sox game yesterday. Two men were out and the Sox were two runs to the good, but two runners were on base and Lyons could see no percentage in passing the Babe to "get at" Herbie Louis Gehrig.

So he tried to clip one past Ruth and the hustling Yankee pulled a real Frank Merriwell by smacking the ball into the right field stands, the Yankee winning 9 to 8.

The crowd swarmed onto the field and raised such a hull-a-balloo that Ruth could hardly make his way around the bases. And the champions hung up their sixth straight victory in spite of having committed six errors.

The homer was Ruth's thirty-sixth and put him 23 days 25 games and six homers ahead of his 1927 record.

The Pirates slammed out 21 hits in smothering Boston 16 to 3, for their ninth straight win. Gehrig won his fifteenth game.

Cincinnati got back into the thick of the National league fight by taking two close ones from Brooklyn, 11 to 10 and 2 to 1. Brooklyn threw the first game away by making seven errors and couldn't do any business with Ray Kops in the nightcap.

Howard Ehmke of the Athletics administered a 5 to 1 beating to the Detroit Tigers, his former mates. Cleveland broke its losing streak by closing out the Red Sox, 6 to 5, on Summa's hit in the tenth.

Says Gene Tunney May Be Asked to Beat Better Man Than Himself on July 26

Champ Leads in Speed and Boxing, While Heeney Is Best at Timing, Accuracy and Versatility of Attack; Challenger Not Counter Hitter

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Fairhaven, N. J., July 10.—Unless something happens in the next seven days to rebash the plot considerably, they will be asking Gene Tunney to beat a better man than himself in at least several particulars when he steps in there next Thursday night to give his title a time exposure. The writer became convinced of this today, after three days of Tunney and two of Heeney had afforded him a rather acceptable basis for comparison. Heeney looks the part of a better fighting man in quite some few considerations that essentially are fighting points.

In making this statement, I have considered the matter of physical condition, gameness, speed and ring sense, timing and accuracy, versatility of attack, ruggedness and strength and, finally, mental attitude. In the first two of these, Tunney is no more than Heeney's equal; in speed, boxing and instinctive reactions, Tunney is quite the better man; in the others, it is my guess that he is Heeney's inferior.

Ahead in Finesse
It may come as a bit surprising that good old Tomaso is to be rated ahead in offensive finesse. But where is Tunney's versatility in this respect? In fact, where is his attack? Quite so, Arm-buster; the bureau of missing articles was speaking about that just this morning.

Gene believes in adopting harsh measures only under provocation. That is, he will strike you only if you are at him first—the counter-blower always. Heeney may not have the hardest punch in the world but his offense is far from lacking in variety. One of its best features is a left hook to the liver, very effective and seldom inaccurate. He also works a left uppercut inside, for the information of those who have seen him only as a right hand biter. This, of course, is his best punch, delivered either to the body or head. Incidentally, he is a solid man on his feet, thereby differing from Dempsey who is geared high and, therefore, with his lack of speed, was easily buffeted off balance in his fights with Tunney.

More Strength, Durability
In the matter of durability and strength, which are worthy of slight mention over 15 bouts, Heeney is far the better man.

What Tunney is able to do about this in the short time at his disposal means everything to the result of the fight. For the Tunney who clipped Dempsey from one hand to another at Philadelphia couldn't miss beating Heeney; even the Tunney of Chicago would be a stand out. The trouble today is that the Tunney who is hasn't been the Tunney who was.

For, in truth, Tunney is very little of anything without timing. Take his accuracy away from him—the thing that keeps buffeting his man away long enough to enable him to circle and back-turn—and you have a very ordinary fighter.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION DROPS "BILL" TILDEN OFF U. S. CUP TEAM

Player-Writer Rule Brought to Startling Crisis by Decision

Paris, July 10.—"Big Bill" Tilden, for years the "big gun" of American tennis, has been "dropped" from the American Davis Cup team which is to play Italy tomorrow, for the right to play France, the present holder of the cup, it was learned here today.

Secretary Cullum, of the U. S. L. T. A., threw a bombshell into tennis circles when he made the announcement that Tilden had been dropped because of breaking the association's rule preventing players from writing newspaper articles about tournaments in which they were playing.

Tilden, Collum charged, had been writing of his recent matches in American newspapers.

By his announcement, Collum brought the much-mooted player-writer rule to a startling crisis.

Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the U. S. Davis Cup committee, told International News Service he was cabling his resignation.

OLDSMOTORS TO PLAY ON SUNDAY

Lefty Springer Will Oppose Eagles at Lincoln Park; Two New Infielders Strengthen Toledo Affirmation for Game Here

When the Marion Eagles stack up against the Oldsmotors of Toledo at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon, the home team will have a team that has won its last two games by way of the shutout.

Information received from the Toledo team stated that Lefty Springer is now being the mound work for the team. He has been going exceptionally well.

The Oldsmotors have been greatly strengthened by the addition of a new pitcher and a second baseman. These players have been working this position together for some time and cover the territory in fine shape. Connelly is being used around short while Fields holds down second.

In their first appearance on the local scene, the Toledo nine was defeated after leading Marion until the last of the eighth inning. It was in this contest that Jim Thorpe made his home but over left field fence to bring home a victory for the locals.

SAYS KONJOLA IS SURE RELIEF FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

This Man Declares New Medicine Did More For Him Than He Ever Expected

MR. JOHN W. ROBINSON

"At the time I started taking Konjola my entire system was rundown but this medicine did more for me than I ever expected," said Mr. John W. Robinson, 114 West Sixty-ninth Street, Carthage, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Only a few bites of food satisfied my appetite and even that little bit caused distress. Quantities of gas made me gasp for breath and a hot liquid always rose into my mouth. Then my kidneys became affected and I was forced to rise several times every night. The next day I felt tired and completely worn out."

"While in this condition I started taking Konjola and within a short time my health troubles were forgotten. My stomach functions perfectly and no matter what I eat, gas does not form and the liquid never comes up in my mouth. Konjola also strengthened my kidneys and gives me the refreshing sleep every night. My health has improved one hundred percent and that is why I am endorsing Konjola."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product that now Konjola is the most highly endorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Drump & Sons Pharmacy and is also being sold by all the first druggists in all towns throughout the section.—J.W.

Managers Due For Change

White Sox Gets Leader No. 14 Since 1900

BY FRANK MENKE

BING—bing—bing!!! And another White Sox manager has gone the way of a dozen others.

When Lena Blackburne hopped into Ray Schalk's boots, he was No. 14 on the list of men who have labored for Charles A. Comiskey.

The other 13 either quit or were fired during the 28 year span of White Sox existence.

Life as a leader for Comiskey doesn't seem to be either sweet or of any duration.

Dick Padden was the first leader, back in 1900. He lasted one season and then along came Clarke Griffith. After that the parade has been made up as follows:
Jimmy Callahan (1903-1904) Fielder Jones (1905, 1906, 1907, 1908) Billy Sullivan (1909) Hugh Duffy (1910-1911) Jimmy Callahan (1912-1913-1914) Clarence Mackin (1915, 1916, 1917, 1918) Kid Gleason (1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923) Frank Chance (1924, but he never actually led team because of illness) Johnny Evers (1924) Eddie Collins (1925-1926) Ray Schalk (1927-1928) Lena Blackburne (1928).

Next!

UP Boston way the fans are tossing cranberries at the Braves' owners for that effort they made to give 'em a bigger, better, and more beautiful ball club by ousting Jack Slatery, a manager, and anointing Roger Hornsby with the oils of leadership.

Great things were expected of the Hojib! But his showing in the first six weeks as chief oom-pah of the Red-skins has been even worse than was Slatery's, despite the fact that since Hornsby took charge trades and purchases have been made intended to strengthen the outfit.

When Slatery tossed in the sponge—or somebody tossed it in for him on May 23, the Braves had played 31 games, with the result:
Won 11 Lost 20 11 C. 333.

From then until they ceased on July 4, the Hornsby managed Braves had figured in 38 more games with the outcome:
Won 12 Lost 20—P. C. 316.

THIS seems to be a rather bad record for plenty of managers. The story persists that Donnie Bush is to lose out in Pittsburgh, that a change is to be made in Detroit, that the new leader of the Phillies is doomed for a bit of guillotining and that out Cleveland way the folks are beginning to wonder if Roger Peckinpaugh really is a hoty today.

ONE man who seems reasonably certain to retain his job is Miller Huggins of those Yankees. At last, after many, many years, his newspaper critics in New York are willing to concede that he's quite the McCoy.

It wasn't always thus. Huggins hugged the Yanks along to their first flag in 1921, after which a group of New York writers advocated that he be fired. They made the astonishing claim that he should be effaced because his club didn't win by a wider margin.

In 1922 when the Yanks won again, they still were advocating the axe for Huggins. And something though it may seem, the same gang was insisting upon his release after he won the American League pennant and the world's championship in 1923.

It was soon afterward that Captain Til Hooton, joint owner of the club and a man who never could "see" Huggins, sold out his interest to Col. Jake Ruppert, who always was a Huggins' booster. After that the razzing of Huggins ceased has been resumed. And it never will be. For Huggins by winning five pennants and two world's titles is seven seasons, and a certainty to win his sixth flag in eight years has established himself as one of the greatest baseball leaders that ever lived.

BUTLERS WIN

Butler Clothiers last night won their second game of the season from the Crestline Fryer railroad 6 to 0. Tommy allowed the engineers just three hits. The locals scored all their runs in the first inning.

Smith Favors Modification of Volstead Law, But Not Repeal, He'll Say in Talk

Democratic Nominee Believes Views on Prohibition Are Largely Misunderstood; Aroused Over Claims He is Friend of Saloon

Albany, N. Y., July 19 — In his speech formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination, Gov. Al Smith will stress his stand on prohibition, emphasizing that he never has urged repeal of the eighteenth amendment but that he feels a proper modification on the Volstead law would do away with bootlegging and its attendant evils, according to his close friends.

The governor is said to feel that despite all he has said in the past, his views on prohibition are largely misunderstood by voters of the country because of statements issued from time to time in the past by his political enemies and various reform organizations.

There is one thing more than any other which arouses Governor Smith, and that is to be represented as a friend of the saloon. Time without number, his advisers point out, the governor has declared in public speeches and statements that he is absolutely opposed to the return of the old-time saloon.

Will Be Chief Issue
Only once since his nomination has the governor given away to his feelings and that was when he was pictured by William Allen White, Kansas editor, as a friend of the saloon. The governor has made up his mind, however, that he will not be drawn into an argument with anyone over prohibition until after he has stated his position on this subject in his nomination speech.

The belief is daily becoming stronger at the capital that the governor will make prohibition one of the chief issues in the coming campaign. Farm relief also will be dealt with extensively by Smith in his nomination speech, it was predicted. He

MILITARY ACTIVITIES TOTAL TWO BILLION

Treasury Department Reveals Figures for Year Ending June 30

Washington, July 19—Military activities of the American government, including expenses incident to the World War, amounted to $2,500,000,000, or virtually two-thirds of the entire operating cost in the year ending June 30, the treasury department announced today.

These expenses increased $17,970,000 over the preceding year despite a reduction of $55,255,000 in interest charges by reason of a reduction of nearly $1,000,000,000 in the public debt.

War and military costs were given as follows:

Veterans bureau—$401,354,000. War department, $300,544,000. Navy department, $381,555,000. Interest, $731,764,000.

Expenditures by the war and navy departments and veterans bureau amounted to $500,000,000 more than the 1928-1927 fiscal year, the treasury department's gain of $29,732,000 had been the largest individual item.

Officials explained that some of the activities of the war and navy departments, however, are of civil nature and cannot properly be charged against the war or military preparation.

Net Losses to Fracture of Points

BY W. S. COUSINS

New York, July 10.—Irregularity

in the stock market

after the concentrated drive on

Steel was down 3/4 at 117 1/8.

The strength in steel issues was due to optimistic reports on the new bridge contained in the weekly report. Montgomery Ward advanced 1 1/2 to 162 1/2 and Sears Ro-

The motor shares showed a tendency to softness, but their net losses were smallly confined to small fractions and a few continued to show gains.

General Motors, after selling up to a favorable earnings report. Stud-

Police Get Call to Stage Hunt For Escaped Snakes

WANTED—A couple of good snake charmers by the police department. Although accustomed to calls for a great variety of services, Police Desk Sergeant Claude Wertz was given a thrill this morning when a female voice over the telephone asked that police be sent to the Aronhalt lot on North Prospect st., to take part on a snake hunt.

According to the voice, several snakes, belonging to a carnival company which is showing on the grounds this week, had escaped from their cage and the police were wanted to help hunt them down. Some of the snakes had been recaptured, the voice said, but it was feared that there might be one which had been overlooked.

No great rush of volunteers followed the announcement by the desk sergeant and before description could be arranged, it was learned that all of the snakes had been accounted for.

IS IMPROVING

Favorable Reports Received Regarding Condition of E. K. Uhler

Favorable reports regarding the condition of Edward K. Uhler of this city, who is suffering from heart trouble and Bright's disease in California, have been received by friends and relatives here.

A telegram from Mrs. Uhler received here Tuesday reported that Mr. Uhler's condition was considerably improved. Dr. H. L. Uhler, brother of Mr. Uhler, left Marion last week for California to visit the sick man.

In spite of an unparalleled program of expansion, and although all costs—labor, fuel, materials—have increased, electrical service is still the cheapest item in the family budget, averaging less than one per cent of the family expenditures.

City Seems to Hold Winning Hand as New Angle in Jail Board Squabble Develops

The bitterly fought controversy between municipal and county officials over board bills for city prisoners in the county jail has bubbled up again. The question was supposed to have been settled several weeks ago when officials of the two governmental units signed an agreement by which the county was to board city prisoners for 15 cents a day or for 25 cents a meal when prisoners were in for less than a day.

County Apparently Won
Although the agreement was reached, some city officials threatened to lodge their prisoners in some other county's jail.

Jail it was generally conceded at the time that the board of commissioners, the county officials involved in the controversy, had come out on top.

Recent developments, however, indicate that the first guess was wrong. After several weeks in which the contract has been in force city officials appear to have won hands down.

The secret of the whole affair is that city prisoners, for whom the city is supposed to pay the county 25 cents a meal, have practically ceased to exist as such.

Nowadays, when a prisoner is committed to jail from municipal court to lay out a fine he is committed almost invariably as an offender against a state law and the county has to board him free of charge to the city. Only in cases of an offense against a city ordinance which is not covered by a state law is anyone committed to the county jail as a city prisoner.

Jail as a city prisoner. These cases in recent weeks have been few.

Back in Same Place
With the new turn in affairs the city-county board controversy is about in the same place it was a year ago. Until last fall the city had never paid for prisoner's board. A state examiner, however, found that the city owed the county approximately $1,200 for past board bills. Then the controversy started.

So far as county officials are concerned there seems to be nothing to do but board prisoners sent from municipal court and say nothing about it.

CITY CLAIMS MONEY PAID PUBLIC NURSE

Will Apply for Funds from Insurance Co.; Now Goes to Red Cross

An effort to secure the money paid by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for the services of Miss Mabel Hastings, city health nurse, will be made by the city board of health, according to a resolution passed by the board at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

Heretofore the money has been paid into the Red Cross and it is the opinion of the board members the money should be paid over to the city for the upkeep of the city nurse's department. The money is paid by the insurance company for calls made by the nurse on those having policies with the company. The amount of money received varies with the number of calls made during the month. Miss Hastings explained to the board yesterday, and at the present time there is a balance of more than $20 due her for her work she said. The money will be used to pay for the upkeep of the nurse's car and other expenses relative to her department.

That they will experience little difficulty in securing the money, was the belief of the board.

In her report for June, made by the city nurse at the meeting yesterday, she listed 71 calls during the month, including instructive, medical, surgical, maternity, postpartum, fracture and tubercular cases. In addition she reported three home visits in the interest of the dental clinic, sent patients to the dental clinic and five to the medical clinic, six home calls in the interest of school children, one child made a ward of the state and admitted to the children's hospital at Columbus for treatment, three patients to physicians' offices for treatment 23 times, physician's office for tonsil and operation and one to Walter Reed hospital Co. for glasses.

Years of Service in MODEL T FORDS

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five more years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

The labor charge for tuning up the motor is only $1. This includes replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon runs from $3 to $4. Overhauling engine, $1.50. Installing new pistons or connecting rods, $6. Tightening main bearings, $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have the motor and transmission completely overhauled.

The labor charge for replacing rear axle shaft, drive shaft piston or drive gear is $5. All coxets and joints of front end can be tightened for $1.50.

The steering gear can be completely overhauled for a labor charge of $3.50. Buffer repaired for $1.

The labor charge for repainting the Coupe is $25. Sedan, $25. Touring Car, $30. Top deck of Coupe or Sedan can be replaced for a labor charge of $4.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

What One Airport Did.

While Marionites ponder and consider and weigh the question of a municipal airport it might be well to turn their attention to Cleveland. The Ohio metropolis has exceeded all of its first expectations in the matter of aviation. Cleveland looked ahead four years ago and procured an airport that to many seemed an extravagant expenditure. W. R. Hopkins, the city manager, fathered the idea of a municipally-owned field.

Three years ago the airport value was $1,000,000. Today property on which the airport is located, planes, hangars and equipment of private and public capital are valued at $2,500,000, according to City Manager Hopkins' annual report.

The business done by the Cleveland airport is marvelous and it should give Marion an incentive in the securing of a field as soon as possible.

Nearly 4,000 planes cleared the Cleveland field during the first year. The number increased to 11,000 in 1926, and last year 16,800 airplanes arrived and left the field exclusive of local flights about the city.

The volume of freight by air is increasing monthly. It is shown by both post-office and express figures. During 1925 to 1927 inclusive, 4,600,000 pounds of express and freight were cleared by air from the Fifth City port. At the same time 4,900,000 pounds of mail was sent and received.

The 112th air squadron of the Ohio National guard and nine private concerns having air mail contracts have built hangars on the space leased by the city.

Among the new improvements on the airport are a meteorological station established by the post-office department and a new signal light erected by the city, while the department of commerce is to put in operation a new radio beacon to aid in night flying.

If Cleveland can obtain this much business from its airport in four years why is not an airport the most profitable civic development Marion could make?

The barbering "artisans" in attendance at the convention of the Association of Master Barbers down in Columbus were told by an official of the international order that "long hair will never come back," which may be offered as probably another illustration of the hope being father of the thought.

The tooth found in an ancient river bed out in Nebraska in 1923 and put forward by scientists of the American Museum of Natural History as proof that an ape-man or forerunner of the human species lived in America millions of years ago, turns out to be that of an extinct wild pig, many similar teeth and the remains of the pig having been dug up at the place where the original tooth was found. You have to take off your hats to the enthusiasm of the scientists.

A Great Step Forward.

If there be any kind of accident that makes the blood run cold it is that involving children. Some of the state and nation's worst disasters and tragedies have taken the lives of children while they did their little tasks in school or made their way to and from school.

One of the most progressive steps yet taken in protecting these young lives was reported in the Star yesterday. Congratulations should go to the district school boards of Marion county and to County School Superintendent C. B. Rayburn for the inauguration of the insurance system among drivers of buses carrying children.

While it is to be hoped that Marion county will never witness a school bus accident, nevertheless it is mighty fine to realize that such protective steps have been taken. Liability insurance, we believe, will make drivers more careful and more conscientious. And, if there should be any accidents the public will have the assurance that there will be ready money to help parents mend those injured bodies.

This city and county have been known for their progressive educational facilities and the fact that Marion is the first or one of the first counties in Ohio to have every one of its school districts adopt the liability insurance plan for its bus drivers will further that distinction.

Americans can not reasonably complain regarding the imposition by Cuba of a three-dollar head tax on all entering or leaving the island. The United States was the first to offend in the matter of making travel charges expensive.

Prefect of Police Chiappe, of Paris, refuses to disturb petters on the streets for the reason that he used to do some street petting himself and believes that it is all very charming and part of the Parisian atmosphere. "Better on the street," he says, "and even on the benches in the railway stations, than in some shabby hotel." All of which goes to show the Prefect Chiappe is consistent, a philosopher, and something of a moralist as well.

Safeguarding Their Property.

Management of a new hotel in New York City is out with the announcement that cork-screws, along with soap, towels, wash cloths and Gideon Bibles, are to be a part of the room equipment when the hostelry is formally opened to the public.

In these days of prohibition the announcement that cork-screws will be made part of the room equipment of a hotel is not to be taken lightly. Many hotels have found that it is good policy to keep a supply of cork-screws on hand in the front office, where the bell-men may get them easily, but so far as the records disclose, this is the first hotel to make them a part of the house equipment.

Hotel men have found that the sharp edges of bureaus, chair arms, doors and even radiators have been used by guests who brought their bottles, but forgot their cork-screws. It is held that the inclusion of cork-screws in room equipment will save many thousands of dollars now paid to cabinet-makers who repair the chipped furniture.

EARLY TARGET PRACTICE.

Low Vitality Invites Colds.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

All sorts of efforts have been made to find the germ of the common cold. If it is due to a germ, it may well be that it is one so small as to be invisible by the aid of any microscope yet invented.

Colds can be passed on from one person to another. This shows that there is some sort of infective material. It may be carried through the nasal or other secretions of the ill person to the well one.

If the well person is really well, if he is properly fed, free from undue fatigue, and functioning normally, he is likely to be safe. There must be lowered vitality, as well as the presence of the infective substance, in order to "catch cold."

The scientists have taken the secretions from diseased throats, passed them through a stone filter, and caught the clear fluid which results. Under the microscope the liquid appears entirely free from visible substance, yet it may be capable of producing disease. It may contain what is called a "filterable virus." That is, it possesses in its solution some sort of poison which will cause definite symptoms of disease.

Several American and foreign scientists claim that common colds are caused by a filterable virus. They contend that colds may be produced by the filtrate, prepared as I have told you.

There is much to support the theory that colds are "catching," that they may be passed from one person to another. In sneezing and coughing, in talking loudly and in spitting, the spray containing the infective material is thrown out and may be inhaled by another. Boiled hands may carry the secretions. The eating utensils and toilet articles may do the same thing.

The cold need not start in the nose, although it generally does. Ordinarily the first symptoms are running of the nose and sneezing. But the trouble may begin as a sore throat, or it may take the form of bronchitis. No matter where it begins it will not be long before the whole head and upper part of the chest are involved.

The lining membranes of the nose, throat, mouth and breathing apparatus are continuous. As soon as inflammation begins in one place it gradually extends until all the mucous membranes of the head are involved.

At first there is redness and swelling of the membranes. Then there is increased secretion, first of the watery element and later of the thicker or mucous element. The trouble creeps along, searching out every part of the nose, dipping down into the nasal accessory cavities, extending to the throat, going up the Eustachian tubes to the ear and traveling along into the voice box. Eventually it reaches the bronchial tubes and lungs.

You have learned what cold really is and how it develops. You know that it is infectious or "catching" and that you must be careful of others or they will suffer. You should take precautions to guard yourself against its dangers.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

G. P. S. Q.—Would gallstones cause a pain in the middle of the back and also affect the liver? The pain has persisted over a year, but is lately growing worse. Have been told by some that it is due to neuralgia. What is your opinion?

A.—May be gallstones. Why not have an examination and X-ray to get at the exact source? Then definite treatment can be advised. Careful diet, application of heat and avoidance of constipation will help in the meantime. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. N. Y. Q.—What do you advise for enlarged pores?

2.—Is a teaspoonful of cod-liver oil taken three times a day helpful?

A.—Try applying hot and cold compresses, alternately for ten minutes night and morning.

2.—Yes. Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON

Says Bertrand Russell, one of the most thoughtful of living men: "And so we come to the old dilemma: only kindness can save the world, and even if we knew how to produce kindness we should not do so unless we were already kind." Science has not given men more self-control, more kindness, or more power of discounting their passions in deciding upon a course of action.

The fact remains that despite the astonishing findings of scholarship and science, despite our amazing industrial progress, despite the complexities of what is probably the most remarkable civilization that ever occupied the earth, we are not made better men and women by all this. We can not produce gentleness and affection by machinery.

There are 1,750,000,000 people inhabiting this speck in the limitless universe which we call the earth. Perhaps millions on some other planet, seeing its faint light in the far heavens, call it something else. No matter what it is, it is where you live at the moment, and for only a moment. More than 33,000,000 of these people, most of them knowing little of what it is all about, die every year. The death rate is more than 90,000 daily—about 4,000 an hour, sixty a minute, one every second. Only one man in every thousand reaches the age of 100. And a hundred years is but a fleeting moment in the eternal passage of time. One in 500 reaches the age of eighty. Six in a thousand live to be sixty-five. In a mere hundred years there will be hardly a handful of men on all the earth who are alive today. And those few who are alive will be mostly useless creatures.

If we can think only in terms of our little lives on this planet it is not worth while for us to think at all, or to live at all.

In the words of a historian: "If modern history proves anything it proves there is no transformation, no great revolution in the material order, unless it was prepared in the moral order, in the order of ideas."

This is what makes books and preaching and writing worth while—if all is done thoughtfully. Somebody has to do a lot of thinking about a better world before anybody ever gets to work to create it.

We have been passing through school commencement. How many young men and women will find this summer that the college curriculum has not fitted them to approach life and its problems with judgment? How many will find that the temporary possession of some few facts or of many facts has not prepared them to face up to important work? Those who find themselves the best fitted are those who have caught something by contact—contact with great personalities sometimes found in the ranks of teachers. To have contact with young lives is a dangerous opportunity. Character—or failure—is along the way.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Sunday. John Walsh who reported he was walking from San Francisco to New York on an alleged wager with the New York American arrived in Marion. While here he was the guest of Robert G. Cheney. He obtained signatures of Elks and the seal of the Elks lodge in each town in which he stopped.

The male chorus of the Deutscher Bund and members of their families attended a picnic at Monette Grove, north of Marion.

John McGraw, Big Four conductor, was stabbed twice below the heart when he attempted to collect a ten-cent excess charge on a cash fare from a passenger near DeGraff. The DeGraff marshal and a posse were searching for the assailant who jumped from the car and disappeared.

Twenty women representing the Druids lodge auxiliary were guests of the lodge at Columbus.

The Rev. F. E. Zechel, former pastor at Gallon, was installed as pastor of the First Reformed church here.

Marion, Ohio-State league leader, defeated Portsmouth, in a game in the southern Ohio city, by a score of four to two.

What Is Knowledge?

BY GARRETT F. SERVING.

It is but a few years ago that we began to read among the publication lists such titles as "The New Astronomy," "The New Chemistry," "The New Knowledge." Of course, there were justifying reasons for the use of such titles. The books bearing them generally presented a great deal of new matter, the result of recent discovery and research, and occasionally they included truly revolutionary advances. They showed how in ten years or less more new effects and new principles had been discovered and new methods invented than in all the preceding history of the science. That was their real message.

The only mistake was in assuming, by inference, if not by affirmation, that the new knowledge was of a new kind, and was final knowledge. In any case, the general reader was very apt, from the air of the book, to catch the impression that what he was reading described the finishing stroke. The hole had been made and there would be no going back of that, and no swerving from the line indicated.

But science never pauses and seldom lets any of its theories stand unaltered, even when they have come to be regarded as something permanent and not mere working hypotheses. This is shown by the fact that now we are beginning to read announcements of books on "the newer knowledge."

The "old" knowledge, the "new" knowledge, the "power" knowledge—what is knowledge, anyway? There is surely no virtue in mere newness. Discarded knowledge is not knowledge, and never can have been knowledge in the true sense of the word. It was a mistake, an error. So new knowledge, when displaced by newer knowledge is thereby proved to have been erroneous.

But, is science, then, made up only of an endless chain of deceptions and illusions? That is what its enemies might affirm on the basis of what they would call its own admissions shown in a series of mutually disqualifying publications.

A man of science, least of all men, can afford to throw stones, or assume an air of captandism air without knowledge, or plique himself on the finality of his reasoning and his theories. In proportion as he possesses the real scientific spirit he will believe and assert that there is only one kind of knowledge, which is neither "old" nor "new," but which continually feeds before its pursuer and so remains ever timely. What is called new knowledge is only another view, another way of looking at the dealing with, the unchangeable facts of the universe.

The recent history of atomic and electronic theories shows how rapidly the new displaces the old without change in the underlying facts. Only a year or so ago the "planetary atom" was the confusion of the "new knowledge," now the vibrating atom, or whatever it may be called, has shaken it, perhaps thrown it out, so that the confusion of theories and observations on this point is so entangled and full of contradiction that Dr. C. P. Davidson finds no better way to describe the situation than by saying: "We must believe not only that there is a certain sense in which rabbits are cats, but there is also a sense in which cats are rabbits."

Heinrich Schulz-Beuthen.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

One of the most important of the modern German composers, Heinrich Schulz-Beuthen was born at Beuthen, Silesia, on June 19, 1858. His parents were both amateur pianists, but they did not give the boy any encouragement, but only instruction, intending him for a career as a civil engineer.

At the gymnasium at Breslau Schulz spent most of his time in practicing the piano and in composition. On entering the university his compositions attracted the attention of the musical director, and in 1882 he wrote a "Singspiel" which was produced by the students of the university with great success. Schulz, the musical director, and several other professors advised Schulz to give up any idea of becoming a civil engineer and devote his time to music. On their advice, he entered the Leipzig conservatory. Karl Reidel, with whom Schulz was privately studying at the same time as he was attending the conservatory, was so impressed with his pupil's talent that he recommended that he be sent to Liszt, through whose recommendation it was performed at Dessau in 1885.

From 1886 to 1888 Schulz lived in Zurich, devoting most of his time to composition. Through his admiration for and friendship of Wagner, Schulz made many enemies. They used their influence to prevent the performance of Schulz' works in Switzerland, and this unjust treatment gradually undermined his health.

Leaving Zurich, Schulz moved to Dresden and not meeting with any success, went to Vienna, where he found the influential Hanslick strenuously opposed to the productions of the Wagner-Liszt school. In 1895 Schulz returned to Dresden, where he was made Royal Professor in 1911. In 1913 the city council voted him an annual pension, which was to be continued to his widow.

Schulz has been called by Liszt and other musicians of authority one of the most important of the modern German composers. He died in Dresden on March 12, 1915.

The Constant Flame

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

CHAPTER NINE

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

It was a warm morning in June, and the sun was shining brightly over the garden. The roses were in full bloom, and the air was filled with the sweet fragrance of flowers. The birds were singing merrily, and the bees were busy at work. It was a beautiful day, and the people were all out enjoying it. The children were playing in the grass, and the old folks were sitting on the bench, watching them. The young man and woman were walking hand in hand, and the old man was sitting on the porch, smoking his pipe. It was a peaceful scene, and the people were all happy. The young man and woman were looking at each other, and the old man was looking at them. The young man was smiling, and the old man was nodding. The young woman was laughing, and the old man was chuckling. It was a happy day, and the people were all enjoying it.

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADRIAN GARRISON

Lillian Tells Made of the Paradoxical Characteristic

As I laid down the letter which Lillian had asked me to read aloud to her, I was conscious that the fantastic premonition she had had was gripping me. It was as if the sheet of paper with its bold characters which was lying in my lap was a living albatross, with wings of evil coiled within it. I lifted my eyes from the signature "Samuel Harrison," and met Lillian's intent gaze.

"You feel it too," she said with the touch of the psychic which I so often have noticed in her.

"I feel that I don't like the letter, nor the writer nor his handwriting," I retorted, furious with myself that I should have to admit the same touch of fantastic hysteria with which my friend was patently affected.

"You're always cross when your brain has to come under the yoke of your imagination," she commented, putting out her hand for the letter. I watched her anxiously as she glanced quickly over its pages again, and then, crumpling it into a ball, threw it violently across the room.

"Let's forget it," she said. "I wouldn't touch a penny of any money Sam Harrison might pay even if his offer were genuine—which I doubt. In all these years I never have touched a penny of the small amount—Tom—left for Marion. She has been mine—all mine."

Her voice was shaken, raucous, and I knew she was reliving the arid years when her husband had kept her child from her. I waited for a long minute before I answered her, waited until I saw the bitterness fade out of her face.

"I know," I said at last. "And if you were the only one concerned, I should agree with you that the waste basket was the only place for that letter. But Lillian—you must remember Marion is no longer a child. Have you any right to keep from her what may be—"

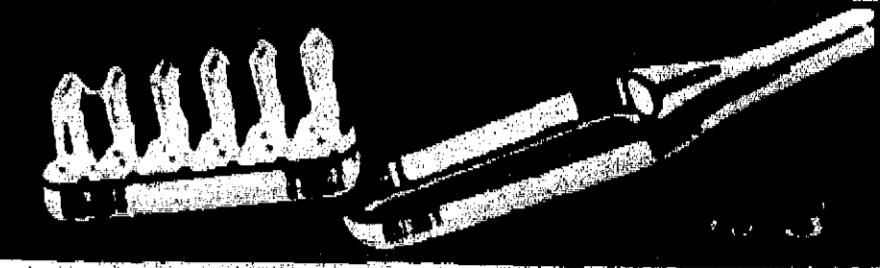

She threw up her head as if I had struck her, and there was in her face the quick resentment with which she involuntarily meets unwelcome advice. But the next instant her eyes had softened, and her voice held reassuring contrition.

"No, you are right," she said. "Marion is entitled to anything which may come to her through her father. I haven't any faith in this offer—knowing Sam Harrison, there's a trick in it somewhere, I'm sure, but at least I must hear what the man has to say."

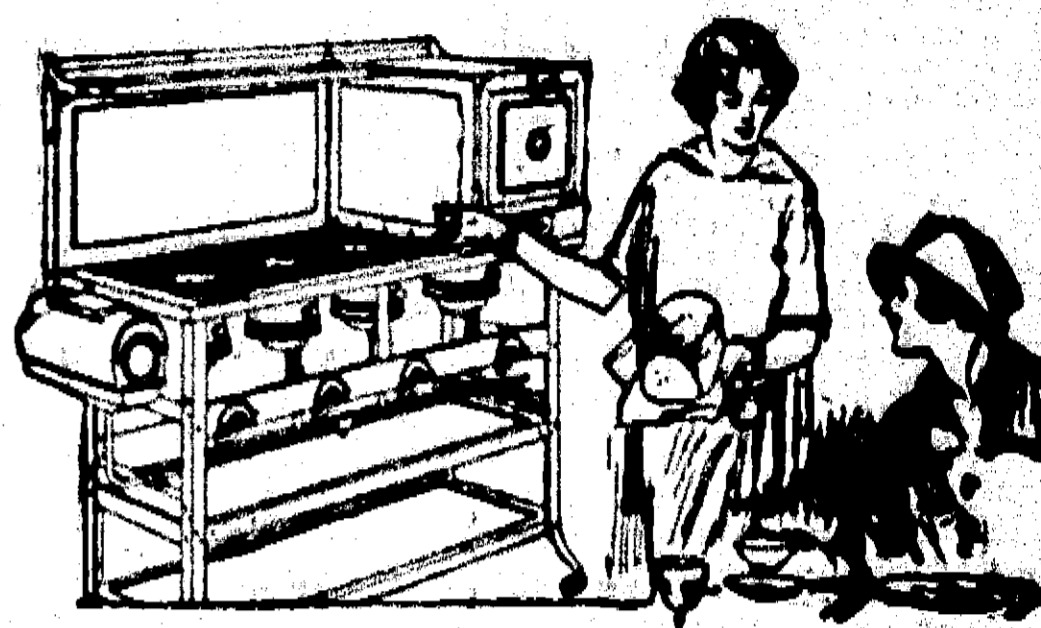

She crossed the room, retrieved the letter and looked at the heading again. "Cleveland, Ohio," she said. "I heard he'd gone to the Middle West, but I never knew where."

"He was a queer combination of traits," she went on, with a restless
